

What do our stakeholders say?

‘There is a real willingness to learn from the scheme, and to listen to what people want and change accordingly’.

“The continuity of the service/staff team really builds a level of trust and respect – the team really know and understand the people we support and ensure they seek the views of the people who live in Shared Lives separately to our support and monitor meetings.”

“The service is bespoke to the needs of both the individuals who use Shared Lives, and to the Shared Lives carers who are supervised by the scheme. We are all different and the scheme and its workers truly recognise and embrace this.”

“The pandemic really highlighted the strengths of the scheme, and the robust mechanisms of support from individual workers, to that of individual Carer networks. The resilience of the Scheme and Carers is amazing.”

Apart from their (the scheme’s) own ongoing support, the team have regularly provided access and links to a wide variety of support agencies and support events.

In our 30+ years of being “Shared Lives Carers “ we have been supported by many teams. The current team in our opinion is exceptional in its support of Carers & the people we support. We appreciate how professional & approachable they are & we admire their commitment & involvement with the local community. In these uncertain times we really value the consistency & reliability provided by the Shared Lives team. It has been extremely beneficial to the people we support. We hope to continue this partnership for many years to come

The scheme really advocates for the people in Shared Lives, as they know and understand the real needs of individuals’.

The scheme is all so well managed which gives carers confidence in it

Carers feel valued and an integral part of the scheme.

The scheme has provided opportunities for carers and people we support to meet together for social events.

"We feel value and listen to. We feel as though our concerns, if we have any, are taken seriously and we feel very encouraged by the professionalism of the staff that we have met at Shared Lives. "
